

Our Lady of Guadalupe Rosary

Order of Prayer:

WOTR Meeting Description:

The Way of the Rose is an open-hearted, inclusive community of people dedicated to the forgotten Earth wisdom of the rosary...and to the Lady, by any name you like to call her. We are not affiliated with the Catholic Church or any other religious institution. Nor do we seek to build a new one. We have no dues or fees, no buildings to maintain or capital campaigns. We pass the hat from time to time for our modest needs. There are no priests or levels of mastery. Instead of lineages of power, we value circles of friendship. We support one another in praying for our heart's desire.

FIRST PETAL -- WOTR circles are free. We may pass the hat to cover special expenses, but no contribution will ever be required. WOTR has no dues or fees for membership.

SECOND PETAL – WOTR circles are inclusive. Everyone is welcome at every meeting. We have affinity meetings but these circles are open. Anyone may attend.

THIRD PETAL – WOTR circles pray the rosary or a chaplet. We may adapt these or modify them for the purpose of a meeting, but the focus of our fellowship remains on Our Lady and her beads.

FOURTH PETAL – WOTR circles are places to pray for our heart's desire. We do not support outside causes – religious, political, humanitarian, or otherwise – that might divert us from our own petitions.

FIFTH PETAL – WOTR circles are leaderless. A member may sponsor a meeting, but there are no teachers, experts, or authorities. Once a meeting format has been established, any member may lead it.

Let us remember that everything shared here is confidential. We do not offer advice or commentary on our petitions, but simply bear witness to each other's hearts.

Who is willing to pray decades? No one is required to pray decades. Of those who do volunteer we usually rotate through the 15 mysteries.

ENTER THE GARDEN - To begin, the host, or anyone who wishes to, will lead us through the tail of the rosary into the garden with one Our Father, three Hail Mary's, and one Glory Be.

PETITIONS

In order to pray the 15 mysteries in the time allotted, we will offer our petitions and/or thanks BRIEFLY to Our Lady, in a word, short sentence, or prayer SEED. A prayer seed is a word or phrase that holds our heart's desire and all that we are praying for, because Our Lady knows and hears through the seed the full prayers that are in our hearts. Follow your prayer seed by the first line of your Hail Mary or – Ave Maria, Gratia Plena, Dominus tecum.

Our Lady of Guadalupe Mysteries

The Story of Tonantzin-Guadalupe whose feast day is December 12

by Licha Witcha and Perdita Finn

Each section is to be read before a decade of the rosary, for 15 decades in all.

1. In the history of the indigenous people of Mesoamerica, there is a Mother who is so great that life is impossible without her. She is the cycle of birth, death, and rebirth. And while she is known by many exalted names, she is also simply called “Tonantzin, Our Mother.” This is Tonantzin’s story—when she became known as Guadalupe.

2. The most powerful titles are reserved for her. She is:

Mother of the Gods

Mother of the Giver of Life

Mother of the Lord of the Near and Far

Mother of Heaven and Earth

3. In 1521, Spanish conquistadores invaded the lands that are now known as Mexico. The Spanish invasion was brutal and decimated the indigenous population. Not only did the Spanish invade with the intention of taking control of natural resources and land, but they strove for complete cultural domination. Within decades innumerable plant and animal species disappeared into extinction. A hundred million would be left dead on the American continent. Outside of present-day Mexico City, the Spanish encountered the temple of Tonantzin on the sacred hill of Tepeyac. They demolished the temple, leaving only rubble. The soldiers killed the bodies of the people, the priests tried to kill their souls.

4. In December 1531, ten years after the Spanish invasion, a Mexica man named Cuauhtlatoatzin (whose name meant “Talking Eagle”) walked near the hillside where Tonantzin’s temple once stood. Through Christian baptism under Spanish rule, the man had been renamed Juan Diego. That day, on his morning walk, Cuauhtlatoatzin (“Talking Eagle”) heard the voices of many birds singing from a nearby hilltop. The songs suddenly ended, and in the silence that followed a voice called out his name.

5. Juan climbed to the top of the hill and there met a beautiful young woman whose clothing shone with the radiance of the sun. She immediately put the young man at ease. Juan was so moved by the tenderness of the Lady, he asked if she had a request of him.

6. The Lady asked Cuauhtlatoatzin (“Talking Eagle”) to travel to the Spanish Bishop and instruct him to rebuild her temple at Tepeyac, her sacred hillside. “There I will listen to the cries and lamentations of your people, in order to cure all their various pains, miseries, and sorrows,” she said.

7. Juan pointed out the futility of the request, but the Lady sent him on his way. He made two attempts to convince the Bishop, but he was not believed. For a Mexica man to approach the Spanish Bishop with such a request would be an act of unimaginable courage.

8. On the third day, Juan's uncle was gravely ill and dying. Juan was desperate to find a holy man to help his uncle. Concerned that he might be detained by the Lady's request again, he took a different route around her hillside. He tried to avoid her! Despite his efforts, the Lady intercepted him on his journey. After all, how could he ever be lost to her? Juan urgently explained that he could not fulfill her request and that he needed to tend to his dying uncle.

9. The Lady assured Juan that she had already cured his uncle. She then calmed him with these words: Am I not here, who am your Mother? Are you not under my shadow and protection? Am I not the fountain of Life? Are you not in the folds of my mantle—in the crossing of my arms? Is there anything else you need?

10. She asked him to make one last trip to the Bishop and gave him an armful of roses miraculously growing in the dead of a dry winter. She instructed him to deliver the roses to the Bishop and to ask the Bishop to build her temple. Juan filled his tilma—or outer robe—with the roses.

11. Juan went back to the Bishop a third time and waited all day to be seen. He was finally granted an audience. When he entered the chambers, he dropped the roses at the Bishop's feet. As the roses fell to the ground, the Bishop dropped to his knees, as did all the other men in the Bishop's company. There, on Juan Diego's tilma, was the image of the Lady herself—just as she had looked when she was speaking to him.

12. In the twentieth century, researchers were able to magnify the eyes of the Lady in the Tilma. Although their dimensions are microscopic, the iris and the pupils present the highly detailed images of 13 people. The same people are present in the left eye and the right, with different ratios, just as images are transmitted by human eyes. The reflection transmitted through the eyes of the Virgin of Guadalupe is thought to be the scene in which Juan Diego brought the flowers given him by Our Lady as a sign to Bishop Zumarraga, on December 9, 1531.

13. The Lady's instructions were followed by the bishop. The temple was built for her on the hillside of Tepeyac. Later, a larger basilica was built near Tepeyac. Nearly 500 years later, the original tilma worn by Juan Diego with the Lady's image, remains intact and on display at the basilica. Every year, the basilica is visited by over 20 million people. They are there to see the Lady. The shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe is the most visited Catholic pilgrimage destination in the world.

14. The sash around Our Lady of Guadalupe's waist indicates that she is with child – one of the rare depictions of the mother of God as pregnant. She appears pregnant reminding us that life will continue even at this moment when it seems unlikely, if not impossible. The genocide and ecocide that began with the European conquest of the Americas continues to this day and brought on the sixth extinction of life on this planet. But the mother will find a way to birth new life into the world.

15. The Catholic church gave the lady the name Guadalupe. They named her after a Black Madonna worshipped in Spain. The name stuck, yet the people of Mexico recognized her as their own. Regardless of name, she was their Great Mother. When Mexicans battled for their independence from Spain, they carried images of Tonantzin Guadalupe on their banners. The Mother of all Mothers had not disappeared. She was still the one whose roots extended deep into the land, living proof that she is alive and never abandons her children. She was not destroyed when the Spaniards flattened her temple. She had returned. She is here.

MEMORARE

Remember O most gracious Virgin Guadalupe, that in Thy celestial apparitions on the mount of Tepeyac, You did promise to show Thy compassion and pity to all, who loving and trusting Thee, would seek Thy help and call upon Thee in their necessities and afflictions. And never was it known that anyone who fled to Thy protection, implored Thy help, or sought Thy intercession, was ever left unaided. Inspired with this confidence, we fly unto Thee, O Virgin of Virgins, our Mother. And placing ourselves beneath Thy maternal gaze and having recourse to Thee in all our necessities, we need do nothing more.

O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise not our petitions, but in Thy mercy, hear and answer us. Amen
